QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Question 4:

With regard to the point 7 Contract description of the Contract Notice in subject, we kindly ask you to confirm that Consultant is not expected to prepare project documentation including preliminary or detailed design, since our understanding is that the Consultant will be responsible only for mature transport projects.

Further to this, we kindly ask you to explain more specifically what services are meant under “engineering project preparation services from initiation, to further development and implementation of mature and financially viable transport projects”.

ANSWER 4:

Mature and financial viable projects means that should be prepared in accordance with the national legal requirements of Montenegro and EU standards and norms and ready for implementation. Construction of structures means a set of actions that include engineering documents development, engineering documents review, building of structures, and performance of engineering supervision over the building of structures and creation of conditions for utilization of structures. Engineering documents shall be developed in the forms of: 1) conceptual design; 2) preliminary design; 3) detailed design; and 4) as-built design.

The Consultant will provide engineering project preparation services from initiation to further development and implementation.
